

Keep K-Love broadcasting on the air! It is encouraging. In the possible event of a terrorist attack or disasters that are happening K-Love serves myself as well as a public interest in providing support, encouragement and counseling services to those with PTSD and others. It offers an alternative viewpoint to today's secular broadcasting. I can't image the negative effect it could have on the public if replaced by other networks that do not offer support and counseling on the radio!! Statistically prayer has proved to provide a positive psychological benefit to those who participate, eliciting a calming effect in an otherwise turbulent world.
